Welcome by Mayor of Waynesboro

Elms, Crabs & Other Stress Tolerant Trees

Dr. Bruce Fraedrich

*Vice President of Research, F.A. Bartlett
Tree Research Laboratories*

Join perennial workshop favorite Dr. Fraedrich as he discusses disease resistant species and cultivars of elm and crabapple as well as other underutilized urban tolerant trees that are now available for urban plantings.

After-Care Should not be an After-Thought

Dr. John Ball

Professor - Department of Horticulture, Forestry, Landscape & Parks - South Dakota State University

Too often people believe once the tree is in the ground they are done when really they have just started the transplanting process. This presentation will focus on what needs to be done to ensure that newly planted trees and shrubs will thrive in the landscape and will also discuss the language that should be incorporated by landscapers in their planting 'guarantees.'

Don't Plant a Tree – Plant the Roots

Mr. Jim Flott

Community Forestry Consultant - Spokane, WA

There are clear correlations between depths of soil over root systems of trees and future problems that shorten the life span of these trees. Current planting recommendations may predispose trees to problems, Mr. Flott will discuss root washing planting techniques and the impact it can have on a successful urban tree planting.

“Hey Mom, the Tree Guy is Here”

Dr. John Ball

Anyone working with homeowners on tree care and landscaping soon realizes that understanding clients is a lot tougher than understanding plants. This session will cover how the public views us and our work and how we might improve our image - and sales.
